M Numb. 199

The Daily Courant.

Friday, April 2. 1703.

London, April 1. This Day came in the 2 Mails that were due from Holland.

From the Harlem Courant, dated April 3.

Venice, March 24.

THE Advices from the Armies tell us, That the Duke of Vendome has remov'd his Head Quarters from Guaſtalla to San Benedetto, where he is drawing a ſtrong Body of Men together, with Deſign, as 'tis thought, to paſs the Secchia; whereupon General Staremberg has drawn all his Forces together, and divided them into 2 Bodys, one he leads himſelf, the other is commanded by young Prince Vaudmont, to diſpute the Paſſage of the French over that River; to which purpoſe the Imperialiſts have planted 14 Pieces of Cannon on their ſide of the Secchia. The French continue to batter Berſello, but the Vigilancy and Bravery of the Garriſon has prevented their doing much Damage, who by Sallys and Cannonading have ruin'd part of the French Works.

Vienna, March 24. By private Letters from Italy we learn, That General Solari with his 2000 Men, and as many Recruits, is arriv'd within 2 Days Journey of our Army. The Governour of Berſello has aſſur'd Count Staremberg, that he can hold out till the End of April. A Bomb which fell into that Place, ſetting Part of it on Fire, the French gave an Aſſault, but were repuls'd with great Loſs: Theſe Letters add, that 4 Regiments of the French muſt march into Languedocq. to reduce the Sevennois.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated, April 7.

Nuremburg, March 30. Yeſterday came Advice, that the Margrave of Anſpach having paſs'd the River Filts with 800 Men, to ſeize a Poſt guarded by the Bavarians, ſucceeded in his Enterprize; but the Elector in Perſon with 4000 Men falling upon him in a Wood near Burglenfeld, the Margrave was worſted, and after 20 of his Men were kill'd and as many wounded, was oblig'd to retire; but being himſelf ſhot through the Body, he died yeſterday at Pfeldorp near Neuwark of his Wound. The Bavarian Regiment of Maffey ſuffer'd much in this Skirmiſh, and the Huſſars took ſome of the Elector's Baggage with 6 Horſes.

The Harlem Courant in mentioning this Action for the Margrave of Anſpach puts the Margrave of Brandenburg Onolsbach.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated April 7.

Frankfort, April 1. The Elector of Bavaria paſs'd the Danube at Kehlheym not far from Ratisbon, with 10000 Foot and 4000 Horſe, among them 400 Huſſars, and 20 Pieces of Cannon with a great quantity of Ammunition, and is march'd towards Amberg againſt Count Stirum, who lies between Neumarck and Amberg with 16000 Men. P. S. At the going away of the Poſt 'tis Reported, that there has been a ſharp Fight between the Elector of Bavaria and Count Stirum. There is Advice from Italy by the way of Inſpruck, that the French have broke up from before Berſello. Count Tallard is with the Body he commands on the Saar. Prince Louis of Baden is at Raſtat: The Troops encamp'd at Stolhoffen are commanded in his abſence by the Margrave of Baden Dourlach.

From the Harlem Courant dated April 7.

Frankfort, April 1. After the Marſhal de Villars had taken Kentzingen, it was apprehended he would make ſome Attempt on the Briſgau, but he has repaſs'd the Rhine, & canton'd his Troops in Alſatia. The reaſon of this is thought to be the ſpeedy Arrival of the Dutch Troops in the Lines between Lauterburg and Croon Weyſſenburg.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated April 3.

Hamburg, March 30. They write from Warſaw that the Engliſh Envoy, Mr. Robinſon, meeting the King of Sweden at Luboſchoff within 3 Miles of Lublin, on Horſeback, had Audience of him; that his Swediſh Majeſty receiv'd him very favourably, and aſſur'd him he would be at Warſaw on the 26th of March, where he would give him and the Envoy of the States of Holland Publick Audience, and hear all they have to propoſe to him. Mr. Robinſon had the Honour to Ride an Hour by the King of Sweden's ſide, and then took leave of His Majeſty; and return'd to Warſaw on the 22d. On the 23d, he had a long Conference with the Dutch Envoy, Monſieur Cranenburg.

Hamburg, March 30. They write from Poland, that the Muſcovites have taken the Caſtle of Iwanogrod near Nerva, and that Nerva is in Danger to be attack'd next.

From the Harlem Courant, dated April 3.

Amſterdam, April 2. They write from Niſmes of the 12th Ult, that there has been a ſmart Action between the Male-contents of the Sevennes and the King's Troops not far from that City, in which a a great number was kill'd, but that the Male-contents had the Advantage: Since which they have been at Lunel and other Places, where they made a great Booty; they have made Genouillacque a Place of Arms: They employ a great many Men of their Party in making Gun-powder and other Warlike Materials: Theſe Letters add they are 15000 ſtrong; that thoſe of the Reform'd Religion in Dauphine begin to draw together, and that thoſe of the Province of Poitou begin to ſtir likewiſe: That the King's Troops treat the Reform'd very cruelly when they fall into their Hands, and that the Reformed who are in Arms give their Enemies as bad Uſage when they catch 'em, by way of repriſal.

Geneva, March 15. The Camiſards in the Sevennes have beaten the King's Troops in 3 Encounters. They lately bought ſome Corn of a Gentleman, whoſe Wife is retir'd to this City, and paid for it in Ducatoons; which makes it believ'd they are aſſiſted with Forreign Money from Abroad.

From the Amſterdam Courant dated April 5.

Nimes, March 23. The Malecontents lately put the Vicar of St. Lawrence to Death. On the 18th they burnt the Church of Salinelle. On the 19th, 3 or

or 400 of them fell upon a Party of 40 Men of the Regiment of la Farre, near Villerſeque, kill'd moſt of them, and took Monſieur Maſſilian who commanded them, whom they carried to Aigremont, to one of their chief Leaders nam'd Bourut, who having been in his Youth a School-fellow of Maſſilian's, gave him his Life and Liberty.

From the Harlem Courant dated April 5.

Amſterdam, April 4. Letters from Montpelier of the 23d ult. adviſe, that in the laſt Action between the Camiſards and the King's Troops, above 1200 of the latter were kill'd, and but few of the firſt, who remain'd Maſters of the Field, and have ſince ravag'd the Country up to the very Gates of Nimes; near which Place they burnt a Village and a Cloyſter where the Marſhal de Montrevel had been with his Body of Forces but a little while before, who durſt not ſtay to receive them but retir'd into Nimes, where he keeps cloſe.

From the Harlem Courant, dated April 7.

Amſterdam, April 6. We hear from Paris that the Camiſards in the Sevennes, have lately defeated a Party of 600 Men of the King's Troops.

From the Harlem Courant, dated April 3.

Liege, March 30. We have advice, that the Great Dean of the Cathedral of this City, the Baron du Mean, arriv'd at Namur on the 27th, under a Guard of a Troop of Horſe and another of Dragoons, being brought thither from Avignon by one of the Pope's Officers, and one of the King of France's. He is kept under ſtrict Confinement, till the points that are in debate touching his releaſe are fully adjuſted.

Hague, April 6. The Duke of Marlborough having taken a review of the Engliſh Troops Garriſon'd in Bergen op Zoom, Breda, Bolduc, Heuſden, and Gorcum, return'd hither on the 2d Inſtant at Noon, and that Day Din'd with the Earl of Albemarle. The ſame Day Lieutenant General Lumley with the Convoy, having Officers, Recruits, and the Duke of Marlborough's Servants, &c. on board, arriv'd all ſafe in the Maes. Since the Duke of Marlborough return'd hither, he has been Viſited by all the Officers that are here: His Field Equipage will be ſent upwards towards the Frontiers within 2 or 3 Days. The Hereditary Prince of Heſſe Caſſel is gone hence to Amſterdam on his Way to Germany. On the 3d the Trumpeter ſent to Bruſſels to reclaim the Engliſh Recruits that are Priſoners in Dunkirk, came back hither with a Trumpeter from the Marſhal de Boufflers, who brought Letters to his Excellency. On the 5th, the French Trumpeter was ſent back again with his Excellency's Anſwer to the Letters he brought. 'Tis ſaid the French have propos'd a Place for the Commiſſioners on both ſides to meet and agree on a Cartel, and that it is Hoogſtraten a Village lying between Breda and Antwerp.

Hague, April 7. The Duke of Marlborough will leave this Place on the 9th to go to Maeſtricht, and within a few Days after will take the Field and open the Campaign with the Siege of Bonn; Mean time his Excellency has order'd that Town to be block'd up very cloſely, and the Troops are moving out of their Quarters to form an Army for covering the Siege.
